Partnership with Einstein Healthcare Network

After attending Face to Face's "Share the Mission Party" at the home of board member Rosemary Duffey and her husband Carmen Ezzo, Bill Ryan, Assistant Vice President of Government Relations at Einstein Healthcare Network determined that his organization could provide valuable support to help Face to Face's clients. Einstein Medical Center is located less than ten minutes from Face to Face and provides emergency medical care to many of our clients. Einstein is committed to public health and the holistic care of its patients, values that are also a priority here at Face to Face. In November, Mr. Ryan toured Face to Face with a group of his colleagues including Cortney Reed, of Einstein's Community Relations and Public Affairs department. Ms. Reed, who grew up in Germantown, felt a personal connection to our mission and consequently organized a collection for Face to Face in her office. In lieu of their holiday Pollyanna, Ms. Reed and her colleagues donated over one-thousand dollars in gift cards to places such as Walgreens and Acme, which enable our guests to obtain basic supplies for themselves. They also donated fifty pairs of socks, blankets, coats, hats and scarves, as well as cases of toiletries.

Yet, Einstein's support was not limited to material donations. A volunteer group was organized and on two occasions during December a total of twenty-seven Einstein employees helped cook lunch and serve our clients in the Dining Room. Going forward, Einstein Healthcare Network intends to find long term ways to serve Face to Face, recognizing that many of its patients may also be our clients. At Face to Face, we value local partners, because the care of the individual is a community effort. In our work to alleviate the suffering of our clients and better serve our neighbors, Face to Face is excited to collaborate with Einstein Healthcare Network as we work together to transform Germantown.
